RALEIGH COUNTY
COMPREHENSIVE DEVELOPMENTAL GUIDANCE AND COUNSELING

I. Purpose.

The purpose of this policy is to define the components of a comprehensive and developmental guidance and counseling program based on nationally recognized standards, as well as define the direct and indirect counseling services and counseling program service delivery and monitoring guidelines that are to be reflected in Raleigh County policy and to be implemented at each school. The nine national standards for school counseling defined in §126-67-4 and §126-67-7 of the state policy link the comprehensive and developmental guidance and counseling program to the county/school academic mission by promoting an integral part of the total educational program; and by helping assure a nurturing and orderly, safe, drug-free, violence-and harassment-free learning environment.

II. Application

A. Raleigh County and all schools in Raleigh County will establish and implement comprehensive developmental guidance and counseling programs designed to impart specific skills and learning opportunities in a proactive, preventive manner, ensuring that every student can achieve school success through academic, career, and personal/social development experiences.

B. The school guidance and counseling program is comprehensive in scope, developmental in nature based on the national standards for school counseling programs, and is delivered by counselors, both individually and in collaboration with other professionals and through programs and activities, to every Raleigh County students in grades Pre-K-12.

C. Developmental school guidance and counseling is for all students, has an organized and planned curriculum, is sequential and flexible, is an integrated part of the total educational process, involves all school personnel, helps students learn more effectively and efficiently, and includes counseling that integrates developmental perspectives that are both age appropriate and issue specific.

III. Definitions

A. Advocacy. Advocacy refers to the active support of causes, ideas or policies that promote and assist student academic, career, personal/social needs. One form of advocacy is the process of actively identifying under-represented students and supporting them in their efforts to perform at their highest level of academic achievement.

B. Collaboration. Collaboration is a partnership in which two or more individuals or organizations actively work together on a project or problem.

C. Comprehensive school guidance and counseling curriculum. The comprehensive school guidance and counseling curriculum component consists of structured developmental lessons designed to assist students in achieving the competencies and is presented systematically through classroom and group activities in grades Pre-K-12.

D. Comprehensive school guidance and counseling program. This program is an integral part of the total educational program that helps every student acquire the skills, knowledge and attitudes in the areas of academic, career and personal/social development that promotes academic achievement and meet developmental needs.
E. INSTRUCTIONAL PROGRAMS

POLICY: E.9

E. Consultation. Consultation refers to a process in which counselors consult with parents or guardians, teachers, other educators and community agencies regarding strategies to help students and families. School counselors serve as student advocates.

F. Counseling. Counseling refers to a special type of helping process implemented by a professionally trained and certified person, involving a variety of techniques and strategies that help students explore academic, career and personal/social issues impeding healthy development or academic progress.

G. Counseling-related administrative activities. These activities include: developing and implementing counseling-related events such as orientation and transition programs, financial aid workshops, career and college planning processes, developmental guidance activities, preventive-focused programs and other student-centered activities; writing letters of recommendation; and coordinating with appropriate school officials to assure the maintenance of student records. Counseling activities of a clerical nature such as data entry, the filing of student records and forms, and the duplication of documents and materials for distribution when combined with counseling-related administrative activities, should not exceed more than 25% of the counselor’s time.

Crisis counseling. Crisis counseling provides prevention, intervention and follow-up. Counseling and support are provided to students and families facing emergency situations. Such counseling is normally short term and temporary in nature, and usually results in a referral made to appropriate community resources. School counselors may provide a leadership role in the school district’s crisis intervention team process.

I. Individual and small-group counseling. Counseling is provided in a small group or on an individual basis for students expressing difficulties dealing with relationships, personal concerns or normal developmental tasks. Individual and small-group counseling helps students identify problems, causes, alternative and possible consequences in order for appropriate action to be taken. Such counseling is normally short term in nature. When necessary, referrals are made to appropriate community resources.

J. National standards for school counseling. (See §126-67-7 of this policy. Guidance and counseling program content standards and student competencies.) The nine National Standards for School Counseling are organized in three categories of student development: academic, career and personal/social. These standards provide guidance and direction for states, school systems and individual schools to develop quality and effective school counseling programs. Each of the nine standards includes a list of student competencies that enumerate the desired student learning outcomes. The student competencies define the specific knowledge, attitudes and skills that students should obtain or demonstrate as a result of participating in a school counseling program.

K. Non-counseling activities. These are described as any activity or duty not related to the development, implementation, or evaluation of the counseling program.

L. Peer facilitation. A technique in which counselors train students as peer mediators, conflict managers, tutors and mentors.

M. Program audit. A program audit refers to the assessment of the school counseling program on the components of the American School Counselor Association National Model; the primary purpose for collecting information is to guide future action within the program and to improve future results for students.
N. West Virginia Comprehensive Developmental Guidance and Counseling Program Guide. This program guide describes West Virginia's comprehensive developmental guidance and counseling program model and outlines a process for tailoring the model to meet the needs of individual West Virginia districts and schools.

IV. Components of a comprehensive developmental guidance and counseling program addressed by Raleigh County.

A. Guidance Curriculum

1. The guidance curriculum consists of structured developmental lessons designed to assist students in achieving the competencies and is presented systematically through classroom and group activities in grades Pre-K-12. The purpose of the guidance curriculum is to provide all students the knowledge and skills appropriate for their developmental levels.

2. The guidance curriculum is delivered through a collaboration involving the school counselor, teacher and others appropriate persons. Classroom and group activities as well as individual activities may be used. Curriculum topics include conflict resolution, life skills, character education, personal/social skills, drug/violence prevention and others as needed.

3. The guidance curriculum is based upon student needs and is data driven. Data may come but is not limited to the various academic tests given at the developmental levels, attendance data, dropout data, disciplinary data, course data, and surveys.

B. Individual planning with students

1. School counselors coordinate ongoing systematic activities to assist the individual student in establishing personal goals and developing future plans. Activities may include: goal setting, career planning, and individual students' academic program planning such as course selection, interpretations and application of assessment information.

2. Through individual and group conferences, advising and mentoring, parents and school staff are involved in individual planning with students to assist them in setting goals and developing pathways to realize academic, career and personal/social aspirations.

C. Responsive Services

1. Raleigh County and each of its schools offer responsive services to meet students' needs. These services include but are not limited to, individual counseling, small group counseling, crisis counseling, consultation, peer facilitation, or outside referral. Responsive services may address the following issues, but are not limited to, peer conflict resolution, family relationships, personal identity issues, grief and loss, suicide, child abuse, substance abuse, school dropout prevention and motivation and achievement concerns.

2. Responsive services for students with a severe crisis are usually short term or temporary in nature. The counselor may address the crisis personally or refer the student to an outside resource/agency and serve in a consultative capacity. Raleigh County maintains a crisis response team consisting of school counselors and community members, which may be called upon as needed by any school.

D. Systems Support

1. The school counselor is involved in school improvement and support including but not limited to professional development, consultation, collaboration and teaming, and program management and operation activities that establish, maintain and enhance the total school counseling program. Programs utilized are Student Assistance Teams, Assessment Analysis, Curriculum Team, Transition, and others.

2. Counselors examine various data that impact student success. They attend and present professional development, collaborate with staff and others and work with parents to develop support for the system and individual students.

V. Counseling program services, program monitoring, counselor qualifications and recommended counselor time distribution.

A. Counselors spend at least 75% of their time in a direct counseling relationship with students and devote no more than 25% of their time to counselor-related administrative activities and counseling activities of a clerical nature as defined in State Policy 2315.

B. Counselors are highly qualified, possessing a master's degree in school counseling and West Virginia certification.

C. Student growth and development is monitored by the achievement of the student competencies found in the National Standards for School Counseling, and by the demonstration of positive results in the area of school improvement data. Statewide Assessment data is analyzed by the counselor and staff. Staff development activities are offered regularly to assist in use of data.

D. Counselors spend at least 75% of their time in direct student services which include guidance curriculum, which is higher in elementary, less in middle school and less in high school; individual student planning, which is a small component in elementary, increasing in middle school and increasing greatly in high school; and responsive services, which are greatest at elementary and middle schools, slightly less in high schools. Twenty-five percent of the counselor’s time is spent in counseling related indirect services. This component consists of assessment activities, student educational and career planning, orientation and transition services, and other system support services. See chart below.

VII. Responsibility

A. Raleigh County will utilize the School Counseling Program Guide from the West Virginia Department of Education as a resource for counseling professional development and planning. Counselors and administrators will utilize the West Virginia Department of Education, the Regional Education Service Agencies, the West Virginia Center for Professional Development, and the West Virginia Counseling Association for professional development, technical assistance and support in implementation of the comprehensive guidance and counseling program.

B. By September 1, 2003, Raleigh County will submit a comprehensive developmental guidance policy to the West Virginia Department of Education.

C. Raleigh County developmental guidance program will be aligned with the unified school and county improvement plans. Each school will be required to include a counseling and guidance component in these documents.

D. Measures of success for students competencies in each of the three areas of academic, career and personal/social development will be assessed with data the county and/or school collect regularly such as, but not limited to, attendance, discipline referrals, suspension/expulsion, test scores, retention rates, dropouts, safe school violations, harassment incidences, graduation rates, and tardies. Schools will then develop evaluation methods to be used with the specific student competencies identified each year as priorities for each of the three areas: academic, career and personal/social.

VII. Severability.

If any provision of this rule or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications of this rule.
